

Jane STANDALOFT nee FOUND (aka BARCHARD - 1824-1897)

Jane was aged 27 and a general servant when migrating to Tasmania on the 'Trade Wind' in 1858. Jane and her husband, Thomas, were sponsored by Samuel Horton (1796-1867). Captain Samuel Horton was one of the earliest settlers in the Ross, Tasmania, district. He owned the property 'Somercoates'.

Jane was the daughter of Elizabeth Found (1804-1886) from Skipsea in Yorkshire, England. Jane's mother married John Barchard (1784-1866) on 26 July 1830 in Swine, Yorkshire, when Jane was about six years of age. Jane was sometimes known as Barchard. On the marriage registration solemnized at the Parish Church, Leven, Yorkshire on 24 November 1853 Jane's name was given as Found and she stated her father was John Barchard, although it is probable John was her stepfather rather than her birth father.

Jane remarried another passenger from the 'Trade Wind', John Bonner (1831-1928), approximately a year after the death of her first husband, Thomas Standaloft (1829-1858) under "suspicious circumstances" on the 'Trade Wind'. Jane and John Bonner were married at Horton College in Ross, Tasmania on 5 February 1859.

John was also sponsored by Samuel Horton and was an employee on the 'Somercoates' estate in Ross, Tasmania for at least 70 years. Jane and John had seven children. All remained in Tasmania with the exception of the youngest son, Harry (1871-1946) who resided in New Zealand.

Jane died at the age of 73 at 'Somercoates', Ross on 24 June 1897. Jane's death notice in the Examiner on 25 June 1897 recorded her age as being 64. It is possible she was born in 1829 although a birth record was unable to be found. John Bonner lived for another 31 years passing away at his daughter and son-in-laws, Fanny and William Whittles, 15 Wellington Street, Hobart on 12 August 1928 aged 90 years.
